"Psychology & Spirituality: A Personal Integration toward Meaningful Change"

Our speakers will review current evidence and research findings on the relationship between spirituality and health and the role of spirituality in coping with health issues; discuss the bio-psycho-social-spiritual model of the whole person in the delivery and participation in one's healthcare; describe ways a person or group can prepare to make changes directed toward wellness and the attainment of wholeness; and discuss ways persons from all walks of life can connect with the Divine.

Recognizing how difficult it is for all religions to promote spirituality in these postmodern times, participants will be familiarized with the beliefs of various faiths as they relate to connectedness with the Divine. In so doing, we will participate in an experience offering a sacred place to "Dialogue with the Divine."

About this Ecumenical Conference

This conference is designed to deepen your knowledge and receptiveness of being open to new ways of thinking, acting, and living. All who are in quest of this goal are welcomed to join us for this day of spiritual inquiry. We believe that all humankind yearns for a connection with the Divine, which brings Abundant Life. At some level, we are aware that there is a power grander than ourselves that guides our journey. When we are attentive, we become aware of this pull toward WHOLENESS, a wholeness of self, family, and community. The connectedness between Spirituality and Health has been researched and found to be a positive reality. The efforts required to make changes needed to move toward abundance and wholeness are difficult, yet possible. And, dialogue with the Divine is essential for this wholeness of mind, body, and spirit to occur.
